Focal Point

Some of the strongest visual designs contain a powerful focal point. With this in mind you will be creating three documents in InDesign. Design your documents so that:

- 1) the focal point of page one is dominated by text.
- 2) the focal point of page two uses the symbol.
- 3) the focal point of page three will feature the image as the dominate element.

When finished you'll have (3) three different designs. One featuring the text as the dominate element; one with the symbol being dominate; and the last with the graphic image the main focal point. Print each page full size, and one page in thumbnail mode.
