

Typographic Self-Portrait

Using the images we shot the first week of class as a guide, your assignment is to make a self-portrait using only typographic characters. Load your picture into Illustrator and place it on a separate layer. Then make new layers and add your type to those layers.

Use the letters to illustrate your face, thinking about how your design reflects you. Think about your own identity and study your face and its characteristics. Examine the forms of typographic elements closely to determine what will represent you best.

Process Letters, numbers, and an alphabetic symbols such as parentheses are allowed, as are combinations of different typefaces.

Your design should be black and white, although you may use a different background color if you wish.
