

CULTIVATING COURAGEOUS CONVERSATIONS
SPEAKERS SERIES

UNDERSTANDING WHY I FEEL THE WAY I DO: PSYCHOSOCIAL-
POLLUTANTS THAT CAUSES RACIAL BATTLE FATIGUE

This presentation is designed to provide participants with essential information needed to look more effectively and holistically at society and how it functions differently for racialized people, particularly Black people. The critical objection is to recognize how the foundation and history of race and racism play out to reinforce social and public health inequalities: Participants will 1) Obtain an understanding of the foundation of racial oppression and how it has carried over to modern time; 2) Acquire a deeper understanding of what racial micro-level-aggressions are and how they impact Racialized Communities; and 3) Learn how events cause biopsychosocial trauma in Racialized Communities which leads to Racial Battle Fatigue.

SPEAKER:
DR. WILLIAM A. SMITH

TUESDAY,
FEBRUARY 15,
2022
11:45 a.m.–1:15 p.m.

Register

Zoom Registration: https://swccd-edu.zoom.us/meeting/register/tJEsfuqvrzktGdz1IYK81dkBOLfE_bbQA2_P

William A. Smith is a full professor and department chair of Education, Culture & Society at the University of Utah. He also holds a joint appointment in the Ethnic Studies Program (African American Studies division) as a full professor. In addition, he has served as the Associate Dean for Diversity, Access, & Equity in the College of Education (2007-2014) and a Special Assistant to the President as the NCAA Faculty Athletics Representative (2007-2013) at the University of Utah. Dr. Smith is the co-editor (with Philip Altbach & Kofi Lomotey) of the book, The Racial Crisis in American Higher Education: The Continuing Challenges for the 21st Century (2002). The 2nd Revised edition of The Racial Crisis in American Higher Education is scheduled for publication later this year with all-new chapters. In 2018, he received the College of Education's Faculty Service Award for Outstanding Research & Scholarship. In 2020, Dr. Smith was awarded the Spencer Foundation's Mentor Award and the University of Utah's Distinguished Graduate & Postdoctoral Scholar Mentor Award.

In 2021, Dr. Smith was again awarded one of the University of Utah's highest honors with the Distinguished Professor Award for Scholarly Research and the Black Faculty & Staff's highest award, the James McCune Smith Award of Veneration. In addition, in 2011, the 12th District of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity, Inc. awarded him its Omega Man of the Year. In 2021, they awarded him again its Founders Lifetime Achievement Award. Most recently, Living Color Utah honored Dr. Smith with its award in Education for people who have made it their mission to impact the areas of diversity. Dr. Smith's research focuses on his theoretical and scholarly contributions of Racial Battle Fatigue (a concept he coined in 2003): the cumulative emotional, psychological, physiological, and behavioral effects of racial micro-level aggressions and macro-level aggressions (microaggressions and macroaggressions) have on targets of racism. He summarizes this definition by saying that it is a systemic race-related repetitive stress injury.

Brought to you by:

- Southwestern Community College District
- Southwestern College Black Alliance
- Office of Equity and Engagement
- Professional Development Program

Questions? Email us at: swcoee@swccd.edu

For a listing of upcoming events, visit: [www.swccd.edu/
calendar](http://www.swccd.edu/calendar)

Connect with us on Social Media!

@SWCOEEDP

@swcequityengagement

@swcequitydpd

